WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

When medical emergencies occur aboard a vessel at sea, quick and appropriate action becomes a life-saving event. Falling overboard into cold water, suffering a compound fracture from a fall, or having an allergic reaction to a bee sting can become a major trauma unless there is someone aboard who knows exactly what to do. The chance of shock, permanent injury or death is not just possible, but likely. The way to ensure the best possible outcome is through First Aid training. The US Coast Guard requires everyone holding a basic Coast Guard license (OUPV – “Six Pack”) to complete CPR and First Aid training and hold a current certification. Are you certified in these skills? Would you know what to do if an emergency occurred aboard your boat? To check out your readiness for such unforeseen events, complete the brief quiz on page 12.

When out on the water, we boaters need to realize that medical response to emergencies is not as fast as on land. According to the USCG Baltimore Sector, the time they are notified of an medical emergence to the time the patient is delivered into the hands of the Emergence Medical System (EMS), could be as long as 2.5 hours. The average time is 1.5 hours. This means that all boaters need to know what to do when faced with a medical situation.

The USPS recognizes the need to for members to be CPR/First Aid trained and ready to assist in an emergency. Our national organization recommends everyone take a first aid and CPR course. Within the USPS®, District 5 has taken the lead in CPR & First Aid training. We have scheduled a course to be given at the 2010 D5 Fall Education Conference at the Hilton in Rockville, MD. The course will be conducted by the Safety Institute of Maryland (SIMD), an American Heart Association certified training group, specializing in training boaters in CPR and First Aid.

Would you know what to do in an emergency? If the answer is “yes” and you are currently certified in CPR and First Aid, consider becoming an instructor and starting a CPR/First Aid program for your squadron. If the answer is “no”, enroll to take a course. Your District CPR Committee is available to help you get started. Call me for more information.

The Commander's Deck

Cdr Jim Ziegenfuss, JN

As the boating season comes into full swing, it is apparent that Delhigh is well on it's way to yet another busy and exciting year. Reviewing the Delhigh, District, and National activities listed in this issue, there are cruises and rendezvous, as well as meetings and conferences that can fill just about anyone's calendar. Take some time to look at the activities and plan now to join in on as many as you can. Besides the excitement of running our boats and exploring new waters, these events offer the chance to meet new people and try new things.

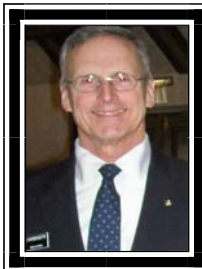

We've just completed Safe Boating Week and, as in the past, there are plenty of articles that heighten our awareness of the dangers we may face when boating. Thankfully, with the training and education we receive by being associated with USPS®, we are all more qualified boaters than many we may meet on the water. It should be gratifying to every member that you have made the commitment to learn all you can and that when we boat with our families and friends, we do it safely and responsibly.

And although Safe Boating Week is over, it should be our mission to continue those actions and discussions throughout the year. Make arrangements to get a vessel safety check for your boat. Get your non-USPS boating friends to get one too. Engage other boaters in conversations about skills, maintenance, and safety. Share your experiences and gain even more knowledge by listening to others. As members of the USPS, we should lead the way in boater safety. Remember, you'll never know whose life you may save by sharing a story and helping someone learn.

If you haven't already, take time to watch Cold Water Boot Camp (the WEB link can be found in this issue). It's informative and eye opening. Get used to getting out your PFD's when traveling on-board. Consider taking medical emergency cards for yourselfand guests. Plan on taking a CPR course, and know the basic principles of First Aid. And of course, as you venture into bigger waters, commit to taking advanced and elective courses offered by our squadron.

2010 looks like it will be a great year. Let's have fun.....and boat safely.

Jim (610) 498-3742

I'm pleased to announce that Delhigh has five new Advanced Pilots! Please join me in congratulating Michael Lebeduik, Bruce Nodine, Doug McKenzie, Cyrus Nowroozani and Kathy Nowroozani.

The Education Committee will meet on 16 June 2010 at 1900 at Holy Trinity to plan Delhigh's educational offerings for the coming year. If there is an advanced course or elective that you would like to take, please let me know (seo@delhigh.org) or come to our meeting!

Delhigh is continuing to offer USPS seminars at Peters Marine in Allentown. Watch for dates and times.

Enjoy the summer boating season and be safe. We want to see you in class this fall!

SENIOR MEMBER AWARD

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER

P/C ROBERT RENDISH, P

The Delhigh Power Squadron's Lake Beltzville Environmental Clean-up and Vessel Safety Checks was conducted on Saturday May 15, 2010. The weather was dry and sunny for the most part, but a little windy around the lake and on the water. The main boat ramp wasn't as busy as we had expected, but by lunch time it was much more active. As active as it was, we had a good turn-out of members and friends to collect trash and refuse along the walking trails and along the several miles of shoreline. We had 12 people participate this year, and the most unusual piece of trash/debris was a child's plastic sliding board and ladder. How it got there is unknown. We also collected several bags of trash to add to the clean-up of Lake Beltzville.

This year we had two new Vessel Safety Check examiners; Kathy and Cyrus Nowroozani. They joined veterans Dick Garnjost and Mike Lebeduik in offering courtesy Vessel Safety Checks to those who wanted to be safer more educated boaters. They combined to complete 15 Vessel Safety Checks that morning and early afternoon. The Squadron welcomes Kathy and Cyrus Nowroozani to the VSC certified examiners. Great job by all. We then went into the park, where Rich and Bea Norris had selected a fine pavilion overlooking the lake for our lunch. When we arrived, Rich already had the charcoal burning and ready for the hot dogs. Rich cooked by the way, for all those who actually want to see me cook. I keep telling you people you don't want me cooking for you. Lunch was served, and afterwards a group photo was taken.

Thank you for all those who participated, and a special thanks to my brother Mark, for assisting me, and Kathy Nowroozani for purchasing the food.

I recently read the Delhighlights Special D/5 Conference Issue and was extremely impressed with the photos, the group shots of our members working, organizing and hosting the incoming District Commander's breakfast. From all that I've heard, our squadron did a fantastic job pulling off this event considering the location and logistics they had to deal with. Thank you to all those members and friends of the squadron who participated and made this event a huge success.

I am extremely proud to be a part of this wonderful safe boating organization and to see our members work very hard behind the scenes, planning and organizing an event that was many miles and several hours away. Unfortunately, I was unable to attend and help our group with this great event. The Monday before, I was admitted to the hospital, and diagnosed with acute diverticulitis, a very painful illness. I was in the hospital for a week. I'm feeling much better now, and believe me, I would have preferred to be in Ocean City, MD, to be a part of our squadron at the District conference. Congratulations to our new District 5 Commander, one of our own, Chris Brown. A great job done by all!

“Cold Water Boot Camp”

P/D/C Brian Becker, JN, associate member of Delhigh and current member of Patapsco River Sail and Power Squadron, has made arrangements to provide Delhigh with a copy of the video “Cold Water Boot Camp”. This video illustrates the effects cold water has on individuals in the event they are exposed to it.

While Delhigh plans to use this video as part of our educational offering to members and students, you may view this short, 10 minute production by typing the following web address into your browser and running it. Clearly, personal flotation devices can aid in our survival in the event of an accident or emergency while boating in cold water.

Atlantic City Rendezvous

16, 17, 18 July 2010

Get ready for the Delhigh's second summer Rendezvous to Atlantic City, New Jersey. Gambling, fabulous first class entertainment, fine dining and great fun is what you can expect before you even leave the docks at Trump Marina's Farley State Park. That's right, it's a state park marina and comes with excellent amenities for the skilled boater who is looking for a fabulous vacation destination. Although this is only a weekend rendezvous, 16, 17, 18 July 2010, you can come earlier and or stay later. There are already several boaters from Delhigh planning to be there and you should, too. Friday night we are planning a Galley-Luck dinner (bring a dish to share.) On Saturday, dinner at one of the Marina's finest restaurant. Then gambling with the $25 you will get from the Marina just for docking your boat there. If gambling is not your cup of tea, try the indoor/outdoor pool included with your stay. Or catch one of the two shows going on at the dockside show room. Did I mention most of this is already included in your dock/room fees? So if you haven't heard enough already contact:

Merit Mark Correction

In the April/May issue of Delhighlights, Delhigh recognized each member who received a Merit Mark in 2009. Doug McKenzie's name was unfortunately omitted from the list, although he received his MM last year. Doug remains active in many activities, is currently the Asst Chair of the ABC Save Boating Course and continues to teach in that area.

VSC Corner

It has been quite a few years since Delhigh has added new VSE's to help educate the public. In April, Cyrus and Kathleen Nowroozani expressed a desire to become Vessel Safety Examiners. They followed through with their request. They took the course, passed the VSC Exam, both scoring 100%, and completed their required five supervised Vessel Safety Checks to become certified. They have demonstrated the ability to conduct VSC's, educating the public on safety requirements. Their personalities boost the image of Delhigh Power Squadron and USPS.

Delhigh VSE's once again participated in the National Safe Boating Week Campaign by conducting 15 vessel safety checks at Beltzville Lake. Eleven boats passed and received the VSC Decal and 4 boats failed. Discrepancies ranged from outdated flares and inoperative navigation lights to hull identification numbers on the registration card not matching the HIN # on the vessel. Not all boats pass a VSC and that is OK. We are doing our part as VSE's.

To all of Delhigh's VSE's Thank You for a job 'Well Done'!

P/C Michael Lebeduik, III

Swinging the Lamp

SPLASH!!! It's finally in and boating season has finally begun! Time to pop a top, sit back in the cockpit, kick up your feet, and soak in the sun! Hold on, hold on, not so fast!

There'll be plenty of time for that, but now, first things first... You don't want to use your first planned trip as a shake down cruise. It's best to do that when you don't have a planned destination and timeline.

First thing to do is open up the engine compartments, give everything a once over look, then fire them up. Take the throttle a little above idle and go look, listen and smell around the engines. If all looks, smells, and sounds okay, close the engine compartments, grab a friend or two (if you have any, that is) and take her out for run.

Once out in open water, run her up to governed RPM and watch your gauges. If everything reads normal, throttle back to your cruising speed, turn over the helm to your first mate and go back and re-open the engine compartments and put your senses to work once again. Once again, if everything is okay, enjoy the remainder of your trip or simply take her back home.

Now you're ready to kick back... errr, not quite. When's the last time you replaced your raw water impellers??? Those buggers are trained to fail at the most inopportune time. If it's been two years (or hopefully not more) since you've replaced them, I don't care if your gas or diesel, I/O, inboard or outboard, they all have 'em and if you don't replace them every two years, they will let you down when you least want and expect it. I don't care if you replace them yourself or turn the task over to the marina bandits, GET ER DONE!

Okay, okay, NOW you can kick back with your favorite beverage and relax. Remember, boating is fun; we'll show you how!!!

BYE FUR NOW!!!

MARYLAND PFD LAW CHANGES

On April 13th, the Maryland Governor signed into law a requirement immediately altering the age that children must wear personal flotation in Maryland waters.

This law alters the required age for a child to wear a personal flotation device from under the age of 7 to under the age of 13.

Since this law was part of an overall emergency measure, the new age requirement of "under the age of 13" is effective immediately.

FIRST AID QUIZ

1) You are out boating on a beautiful summer day and drop anchor so you can cool off with a swim. You looked but did not notice Sea Nettles in the water. Shortly after getting in the water, you get a jellyfish sting. You get out of the water and see the jellyfish is still on your leg. What would you do?

- A. Flush the skin with fresh water to get the jelly fish off and then rub meat tenderizer over area.
- B. Flush the skin with fresh water to get the jelly fish off and then rub the skin with Neosporin.
- C. Use gloves to remove the jellyfish and flush the skin with vinegar.
- D. Urinate on the affected area to remove the jellyfish and relieve the pain.

2) You and your spouse are enjoying a leisurely cruise on the bay and your spouse tells you she has some chest pain. She looks pale and weak and is rubbing her left shoulder. Soon after, she falls unconscious. What would do?

- A. Call 911 on your cell phone and immediately head for your home port.
- B. Declare a Mayday on either CH 16 or through your DSC radio.
- C. Check for breathing and a pulse and begin CPR if needed.
- D. Put a warm compress on her forehead and cover her while you call for help.

3) While drift fishing on a cold April morning, your friend, who is not wearing a PFD, slips and falls overboard. The water is cold and he does not respond to your call. What would you do?

- A. Immediately dive in after him and pull him on to the boat.
- B. Drop an anchor and declare a Mayday and stay in the boat.
- C. Drop anchor, put on a PFD, and go in after him.
- D. Put on a PFD, tether yourself to the boat and go in after him.

4) While sailing your shipmate gets hit in the head with the boom during an accidental jibe. He is unsteady, confused and has a severe headache. Soon after, he says he is okay, except for the severe headache and a lump on his head. What would you do?

- A. Call 911 to have an ambulance waiting for you and head for home.
- B. Declare a Mayday on Ch 16 or on your DSC radio, and be prepared to treat for shock, and wait for help.
- C. Declare a Mayday on Ch 16 or on your DSC radio, keep the injured person lying down and quiet, with the head and shoulders slightly elevated and wait for help.
- D. Watch the injured person for signs of concussion like; seizures, bleeding from the ears or nose, or loss of consciousness and head for home. If any signs appear, declare a Mayday.

Now for the answers to the questions:

– C: Jellyfish have million of small cells called Nematocyst which are what “sting” you. They can remain on your skin long after the jellyfish is removed. The first step is to remove the jellyfish with gloves and then neutralize the Nematocyst. This is done by flushing with vinegar / rubbing alcohol / ammonia / sea water. Never use fresh water or urine. Never “rub” anything on the site. The Nematocyst can then be removed with shaving cream and a credit card.

– B: Whenever you suspect someone is having a heart attack, time is critical. The American Heart Association standards for adults require activating the Emergency Medical System immediately. On a boat, that means declaring an emergency before starting CPR. Once help is on the way, you can start CPR if needed. Having an Automated External Defibrillator (AED) available could provide an additional life saving support.

– D: Getting someone out of the cold water is your first concern. But you must do so at minimal risk to you. Do not go into the water without being tethered to the boat and wearing a PFD.

– C: All head injuries must be considered life threatening. If an injured person shows any signs of a serious head injury (including loss of balance, confusion and severe headache), he/she should go immediately to a hospital for further evaluation. After declaring a Mayday, have the person lie still with their head and shoulders slightly elevated while waiting for the Coast Guard.
